

Sepora Badower is a Wealth Advisor and Vice President in Bernstein Private Wealth Management's Chicago office. Sepora has built an expertise in working with a variety of nonprofit organizations, associations, foundations, defined contribution plans, and high-net-worth individuals and families. Her focus is fully understanding the goals and mandates of these clients in order to maximize the impact and longevity of their wealth. Sepora provides holistic partnership beyond investment management to her nonprofit clients, from advising on the sizing of an organization's portfolios and drafting its spending and investment policy statement, to donor engagement and educational seminars for its board and staff.

She joined Bernstein in 2016 and serves on Bernstein's Central Region Diversity Champions Council, Chicago Diversity Equity and Inclusion Committee, and Chicago Women's Council. Sepora earned her BA in Philosophy-Neuroscience-Psychology and Economics from Washington University in St. Louis. Outside of the office, she sits on the Board of Directors for Women Employed and GirlForward, the Advisory Board of Defy Ventures Illinois, and the Milken Scholars Alumni Fund committee.
