

Anedra has spent her career in nonprofit executive leadership roles, serving the communities in which she lives and works in the areas of education, healthcare, child and youth development and DEI. Currently, she serves as the Vice President of Development for Jeremiah Program. Anedra is an organizational development executive with a proven track record of harnessing exceptional leadership skills to stabilize and develop teams, mobilize staff, volunteers, and management teams alike in the advancement of organizational mission and goals. Previous to the Jeremiah Program, Anedra served as the Chief Advancement Officer at Francis W. Parker School in Chicago, one of the country's leading independent schools and as the Senior Consulting Associate for the Morten Group.

Prior to Parker and Morten Group, Anedra served as Chief Development Officer at After School Matters, where she led development efforts and launched the largest fundraising effort in the history of ASM. During the course of the prior 16 years, Anedra worked in several different executive-level positions at the charitable foundation of Advocate Health Care.

She has significant experience in strategic and long-term planning; project management; designing, planning, and implementing major fundraisers; managing complex relationships, and fostering staff and leadership development. Anedra has a B.S. in marketing from Hampton University and an M.S. in communications from Northwestern University.
