

Chris Toft has spent 25 years as a development professional including the past nine years at Advocate Illinois Masonic Medical Center in Chicago as Vice President of Development, where he oversaw the major gift program and the campaign for the Center for Advanced Care. In addition to medical fundraising, he has served in leadership positions at higher education and cultural institutions in Chicago and Tennessee. A graduate of Kenyon College, Chris is a past trustee, a current member of the Campaign Leadership Committee for Kenyon's $500M campaign, and he has twice received the Alumni Association's Distinguished Service Award. He is a resident artist at Edge of Wood Theatre, where he has acted, directed and produced for this 80-seat house on the Northwest side. Chris has served as a board member of the Ravenswood Healthcare Foundation, and he is a past council president of Edgebrook Community Church. He was a longtime volunteer for CASE and received the Crystal Apple Award for outstanding teaching at more than 10 conferences. He lives in the Edgebrook neighborhood of Chicago with his wife Nicole and their two daughters. Chris is an avid cyclist, having completed seven century rides, and he has two albums as a singer-songwriter with The Green Fuse.